StereoVision, a publicly traded Nevada corporation announced today that their wholly owned subsidiary Climate Cure Capital Corporation has signed a binding partnership MOU with Ghana's Vision 2050 Forestry Ltd. <https://www.facebook.com/vtfghanacarboncredits/> to generate registered and verified carbon offset credits with 5,000,000 trees located on 25,000 acres of their Ghana plantation to sell on the global carbon markets and share the earnings with an option for as many as 195,000,000 more trees

“This project is an example of opportunities we’re pursuing to do good for our communities while doing good for our investors,” said StereoVision’s CEO Jack Honour. “We greatly appreciate Vision 2050 Forestry Ltd. CEO Kofi Frempong approving us for this very important project. We also want to thank Maria Daniels for her years of dedication to developing Ghana’s carbon credit industry and her expeditious completion of our Vision 2050 partnership MOU. And thanks to Climate Cure’s new Board of Directors member David Waite. David hit the ground running and secured this deal in his first week on the job. We’re working with an international carbon credit registry to register and verify our carbon credits to ensure that they are tradable on global carbon markets. Our team is currently scouring South America, Europe, North America, Africa, and the Caribbean for mature forest carbon sinks. These projects are renewable and sustainable and enable forest maintenance procedures to be implemented.”
